

PERMISSION TO COPY THESIS

According to copyright law, no one is allowed to make a copy of a Thesis without the permission of its author. When the author signs the permission below, it gives Lilly Library the right to make a copy for the use of its patrons. It is understood that Lilly Library may at times make copies at cost (with no profit for the library) for patrons who are out of town and cannot visit the library to use the Thesis. It is further understood that any person using the thesis is prohibited from making any copy of it, and is prohibited from selling it to any buyer.

Nothing herein shall prohibit the author from assigning the copyright to a publisher.

I give permission to Lilly Library to make copies of this Thesis, under the conditions outlined above, as needed for the use of its patrons.
